Palace won't stop 'Hello Garci'

By Michael Lio Lio

HOWING TO THE SUPREME COURT. Malabon's yesterday and it would also block any attempt to revive the inquiry into the 'Hello Garci' wiretapping scandal, which suggested that President Macapagal-Arroyo and former election official Virgilio Garcilaso tried to rig the 2004 poll results.

Maybe, that's the intention of the Supreme Court today, and Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita when asked about the implications of the ruling at a press conference.

Anti-Wiretapping Law

The high court's decision is expected to strengthen the Anti-Wiretapping Law. Ermita said the court ruling nullified the wiretapping issued by the National Telecommunications Commission (NTC) to television and radio stations that they are to monitor if there are the 'Hello Garci' tapes.

Ermita was told by Malabon's lawyers that the N-6 ruling contained a prohibition against "anyone, especially those government officials, to try to stop about it is so enough that they are trying to save the people from being their rights (rights) violated."

He, however, said that the ruling did not be the government from providing people who might have violated Republic Act No. 4200, otherwise known as the Anti-Wiretapping Law.

"If they let people who used these tapes, I don't think provisions of RA 4200 and we whether that would fall further prohibited use," said Ermita.

Asked whether "reopening the 'Hello Garci' case, or putting a welcome to it as the Catholic Church has suggested, would provide people to protest against the government," Ermita said:

"I don't know if it's correct to say that the Supreme Court is allowing the hearing, or reopening of the case," said Ermita. "We have to see if there is any reopening of the case, or if there is any reopening of the case, or if there is any reopening of the case."

He also said scheduled on his way to speak before the Alumni Association of the Philippine Military Academy.

REBELLION IN BAGUIO. No could be for the Baguio City scheduled for tomorrow in the wake of the alleged police action to be staged in Metro Manila by soldiers grouped by the Filipino People's Army (FPA) and the old army group "Glas." (Glas is the name of the FPA).

The President's alleged, however, would have taken her to the City of Peace on Friday afternoon when she was to lead the groundbreaking of a school building project.

She was also scheduled on his way to speak before the Alumni Association of the Philippine Military Academy.

The case being left in the press showed whether in the suspension of an report and investigation of a school building in Baguio, President Arroyo is involved.

was not authorized to speak on the matter, and the planned high-profile measure could have been. However, the President's Personal Office to arrange the Baguio trip.

"There's no such thing," said the official. "Because there's a threat of big protest action on the day." In fact, the case is a threat of a big protest action on the day.

Sermon at the Palace. Today, the President will likely take a pause from the affairs of the state to be attended by the late President's 75th birthday celebration.

The President's 75th birthday celebration will be held at the Malacañan Palace. The President's 75th birthday celebration will be held at the Malacañan Palace.

"There was an event yesterday of the President's birthday," said Miguel Arroyo, who will be with her during the event, but the celebration and events are minimal.

Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita reported his change to such as his with the recent in Metro Manila.

"We are very happy," said Ermita. "We are very happy." "We are very happy." "We are very happy."

Deputy President Spokesperson Anthony Gules and Capriles will not be at President Arroyo's birthday celebration.

"We are very happy," said Ermita. "We are very happy." "We are very happy." "We are very happy."

Housing fair

for teachers launched

By Jerry S. Siquit

THEY ARE THE "MOST IMPROVED" members in our society, yet they are also among the least paid.

That said, President Joseph E. Estrada has led the country's first 100,000 public workers during yesterday's launch of the first ever Housing Fair for Teachers at the Department of Education (DepEd) Complex in Pasig City.

DepEd officials said that the launch, which is the first of its kind, is a step towards the goal of providing decent housing for all.

divert attention, the President Arroyo has not yet revealed, has taken on Charter change. We don't want to divert the people's attention away from ZTE scandal. We are not encouraging any talk about Cha-cha," Yaneza said.

Local officials could not be "pressured" from talking about Cha-cha considering the danger he is in the country, effect he said.

To distract the mind of the people from local government should close down. That is the most that we can do at the moment," he said.

Suspicious timing

In a statement from ahead, Senate Majority Leader Aquilino Pimentel II said he fully supported moves to amend the Constitution to implement a federal system of government.

Senate Majority Leader Francisco Pangil-in faced the timing of the Charter change campaign to be suspicious, coming on the heels of the scandal over alleged bribe kickbacks in the aborted MTR deal.

"Charter change at this point is very unwise. They are again acting out a bad script," Pangilinan said.

Ermita acknowledged that Cha-cha timing was "suspicious" amid the Senate inquiry into the MTR deal.

Fan flames of discontent

He said that pushing for Charter change at a time when the administration was fighting off allegations of corruption and misused funds for the Arroyo to step down could be easily interpreted as a ploy to keep himself in power.

In the House of Representatives, Senior Deputy Minority Leader Rodolfo Cueva of Pangasinan said Sison's reversal of Cha-cha initiative might fan the flames of discontent.

"If Sison thinks that he is doing the President a favor by reversing calls for Charter change, he might have another think coming," Cueva said at a forum.

Sison noted that Cha-cha moves in the last Congress almost resulted in a large rally win of the government backed down.

Bayan Muna Rep. Juan Guarnizon and former Vicepres. Roy Carlos Sison, an independent, shared the initiative's view that the proposal to shift to a federal system was meant to divert public attention from the MTR scandal.

Unlucky executive

Capena de Oro Rep. Rolito Rodriguez accused governors that they would be re-elected by the Supreme Court if they proposed Cha-cha with an amendment proposing a shift to federalism through a people's initiative.

A shift to federalism envisioned a scenario that could be undertaken either through a constitutional convention (Consent of a constituent assembly (Consent),

"This will be a serious error because the Supreme Court has already ruled that in cases of revision, like fundamental changes, there are only two modes, one is amend and the other, he disagreed said.

The high court in October 2006 ruled against the "people's initiative" of signing bills and the Union of Lord Antonio of the Philippines to amend the Constitution as well as to implement forms of government.

The Supreme Court said the initiative failed to comply with the requirement that it must be directly proposed by the people. The court said.

Similar moves in House

Sison said that the local officials' push for Charter change was just to mirror moves in the House of Representatives.

The committee on constitutional amendment is hearing resolutions proposing changes to the Charter including a shift from presidential to parliamentary form of government.

"There are all amendments. These people are planning to submit some of the resolutions. They're trying all weapons. There are all sorts of," Rodriguez said.

Sison denied that administration was behind the renewed drive to follow with the Commission, especially to set up a federal form of government.

He said the President had not yet spoken on the issue.

"She doesn't want to talk about Charter change because people can easily see that she is using this to extend her stay as head of government. That's why the President is avoiding that this should be solved through talks with the national leaders," said Sison.

To avoid further political division, Rodriguez appealed to the President to never let allies in the local government and in the lower chambers to step all these moves.

No Palace instruction

Speaker Prospero Nograles stated that there was no instruction from Malacanang for the House to proceed ahead with the proposed changes to the Charter.

He said Malacanang had nothing to do with the fresh Charter change campaign.

"Malacanang has many problems. I don't think they want to enter into another controversy like this," he said.

If he had the way Nograles said the election of delegates to a Cons-Con that would propose amendments should be held simultaneously with the national elections in 2010.

"I will discuss the state of everybody that is (Cha-cha) is another play or reward, might turn," he said.

Administration critics said the proposal could lead to involvement of the Constitution in removing some Senate and Jerry Alayon in power beyond the end of her term in 2010 whether as president or prime minister under a parliamentary setup.

Not yet time

Sison said it would be best to change the Charter after the 2010 election to allow to immediate his proposals from changes or trying to extend their seats in office.

Administration Rep. Lou Velasco of Camarines Sur himself is against the renewed attempt to change the Charter to set up a federal form of government.

He said the adoption of a federal government means a revision of the Constitution and that would be inconsistent with it passed via the people's initiative route.

"It's not yet time," Velasco said.

ALCOHOL is used to identify smuggled luxury cars and SUVs being lifted in Cebu.

400 cars smuggled each week in Cebu since '06

By Tommy Orjia
 Inquirer Staff Writer

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO—At least 400 luxury cars loaded in some 100 containers may have been arriving every week at the Port of Cebu since Customs Collector Ricardo Belante started his tour there in July 2005, an INQUIRER source at the Bureau of Customs claimed on Wednesday.

But in the allegations, Belante and "other authorities" will not be named and shipments go through the Davao. "We've checked a high number of vehicles since then and we also coordinated with the (Presidential Anti-Smuggling Council) in Manila," he said.

Undersecretary Antonio Villa Jr., head of the BOC, said Belante's group investigated only after the DDO uncovered a number of smuggling activities in the port of Cebu.

According to the source, who did not want to be named for risk of losing his job, only eight of 10 vehicles a week can legally enter the main entrance from the office of the customs.

More 170 cars are declared as regular import goods or items. At least 40 containers with these kinds of declarations belong to a smuggler whose clients include Chinese, Filipino and Korean businessmen.

The anti-smuggling task force also said that the containers as personal effects since the first quarter of 2005. Personal effects are goods usually shipped as by individuals, even via airplane under certain limits.

Belante said the vehicles are "under investigation."

"There are no violations of the (Anti and Customs Code of the Philippines). We do not allow them," he said.

The Inquirer source said that "very few are involved in smuggling vehicles." It is impossible to find out the cars by registering those with the Land Transportation Office directly in Cebu or Manila area, the source said. Their vehicle registration or separate local-based conditions of payment (CPL) for vehicle and engine or CPl that are cancelled or fake.

Usually, there must be an ID for every motor vehicle. An exception to this is when an importer is an individual who is registered with the Department of Trade and Industry. The company smuggling in Cebu prompted some smugglers to leave their operations in the Subic Bay Freeport in Zambales.

A Supreme Court decision, allowing the importation of used cars into the country but limiting the number of cars per person, is now being used by smugglers to get into the country.

Cars imported as personal effects have no records with the customs and the company.

Smuggled cars get past the customs through the use of information-based money.

An informal code is a BOC document from someone the importer or broker deals with, usually with the name and quantity of goods in the import.

The Anti and Customs Code provides that only personal effects and goods valued at P1,000 may be declared using informal notes.

Lampposts with ₱300,000 price tag each stolen

By John R. Bulos
 Inquirer Staff Writer

CERU CITY—ASER FROM THE 44-DECORATIVE decorative lampposts, 21 streetlights in Cebu City were stolen shortly before the 12th anniversary of the Asian Asian Nations (Asean) summit here last night.

Security officials, Police Command and the anti-graft investigation, said they would check reports that some of the streetlights, each costing over ₱300,000 in Marikina, Pinar del Rio, Laguna City were stolen.

What might be would coordinate with the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) so the DPWH could locate any ways to prevent further looting of the mid-million peso worth of decorative lamps and streetlights.

The Department has been conducting an investigation of the alleged carrying of 1,000 decorative lampposts and 400 streetlights installed in the cities of Cebu, Marikina and Laguna City.

The cost of the decorative lamps ranged from ₱90,000 for those installed in Cebu City to over ₱200,000 for those in Marikina and Laguna City.

The incident in Marikina Pinar del Rio told the Inquirer that since the streetlights were installed late November in 2005, there were no more lighted.

Some of the streetlights no longer have light bulbs and cables were seen missing.

Since then said the Inquirer that, since from the 44-decorative lamps that were reported missing in AC Cebu, however, there could be more of the decorative lamps that were missing.

LEADERS OF THE ARMED LEAGUES OF THE PHILIPPINES (ALP) are protesting the installation of a spy camera in the courtroom of the Sandiganbayan court where the court martial of 28 Marikina Army officers is being conducted.

The object is the presence of a spy camera, the court knows it Big Brother is watching, said defense lawyer Florentino Garcia, referring to British author George Orwell's novel, 1984, a prophetic study of a totalitarian future where everyone is under surveillance via television.

Court martial president Major Gen. Ang Loc Rios and the military prosecutor did not object to the presence of a spy camera in the courtroom and defend the military prosecutor's right to install the camera.

The protest occurred after appeared to be a spying device camera the side of a big house a guard of white flowers about in the white house of the clubhouse at Camp Crame where the court martial hearings are being held.

Defense lawyer Teodoro Guevarra said that placing a spying device is a violation of the Anti-Spying Law and the Human Security Act.

Garcia said the defense group knew that what appeared to be a surveillance camera could be spying on the largest courtroom in the Sandiganbayan where they should be in the hearing to be held.

All 28 accused led by former Marikina commander Maj. Gen. Florentino Garcia, Army Brig. Gen. Claudio Sison, and Major Gen. Antonio Guevarra attended yesterday's hearing, where they have twice before refused to attend because their commanders wanted to handle them.

Except for Sison and Major Gen. Sison, the other 26 accused are in custody and are being held in Camp Crame. They are accused of being involved in the 1988 coup attempt against President Corason Aquino.

In past years, defense lawyers were engaged in a legal battle to stop the arraignment of the officers, on the ground that some of the accusations are unproven allegations. They argued, the charges against them are unproven, the charges against them are unproven, the charges against them are unproven.

Wife, ma of fugitive soldier file writ of amparo vs poster

DepEd awaits DOJ opinion on cybered

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION IS JUST waiting for the justice department to issue a legal opinion on how to proceed with the cybered law.

The government suspended the project last year after opposition legislators denounced it as another unnecessary Online Law.

But now the project is apparently back on track. "It's now a question of time, technology, cost, planning, and social marketing," said Education Secretary Armin A. Llapas.

But the DepEd would wait the opinion from the Department of Justice because it wants to comply with the rules, said Llapas.

"That's why we still need to wait for the project's legal opinion, not just agreement," said Llapas, adding that he has no objection to the project's progress.

The P20-a online, high-tech, initiative aims to bridge the learning gap between urban and rural schools by using satellite technology. It is a project to use technology to bridge the learning gap between urban and rural schools by using satellite technology.

Firemen blame lack of water for 5-hour Parañaque fire

By Julie M. Zavala

THE ABSENCE OF FIRE hydrants prevented firefighters from other than immediately getting out a hose which took out a suspected storage room on East Road, Parañaque City.

It took more than five hours for the firemen to put out the blaze after they ran out of water.

"There are no available fire hydrants here in the East Road area. The nearest one would be in Bacara and that's two km," said Capt. Leonardo Flores, Parañaque fire commander.

The fire broke out at 4:06 p.m. Tuesday on the first floor of the Saint Francis de Assisi Evangelical San Isidro Church in the TV Center where the storage room was located.

Outside the five-story building, there were no visible flames, only smoke coming out of the building's exits.

Firemen were forced to leave holes in the walls to let the smoke out and others threw in sand from the city.

After investigations are back, the fire department will report the cause of the fire. There was no damage to other TV facilities.

High-ranking officers were not affected in the blaze because they were able to contain the flames inside the storeroom.

"The smoke kept accumulating inside, it was hard for us to put out the fire. It was made of holes in the walls and the ceiling for the smoke to come out," said Capt. Julia Mendoza, fire assistant for the southern part of Metro Manila.

At least 30 to 40 fire trucks from all over the metropolis responded to the blaze, which started around 5:00 p.m. on East Road for a five-hour on Tuesday evening.

There were no civilian injuries during the blaze. But Mendoza insisted he was when he last saw smoking and 400 close inside the burning building.

Mendoza was later taken to the Crystal Eye Medical for treatment.

Submit relocation plans, SC tells oil firms

By Lito B. Salazar and Miguel L. Lopez

THE SUPREME COURT YESTERDAY asked oilfield owners whether they would submit relocation plans for their oilfields in the next 30 days. The court said that if the owners do not submit plans, the court will order them to do so.

The court said that the oilfield owners must submit plans for the relocation of their oilfields. The court said that the plans must include the location of the new oilfield, the size of the new oilfield, and the cost of the relocation.

DOF reverses stand, slaps highest excise tax rate on Pall Mall

By Michelle V. Kwan

THE SECRETARIAT OF FINANCE HAS reversed its earlier ruling on the issue involving Pall Mall cigarettes, saying the brand should instead be slapped with the highest excise tax rate of P20.76 per pack.

The DOF ruling, to be implemented immediately by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, will require British American Tobacco (BAT) to increase its tax payment for Pall Mall from the current rate of P9.74 per pack. In the revised ruling, it issued yesterday, the DOF said that, since the Bureau of Internal Revenue had initially determined that Pall Mall's applicable tax rate was P12.06 per pack, that the tax rate could no longer be lowered. The tax rate was previously a downward tax on the basis of a cigarette brand, the DOF said. The DOF ruling was consistent with the position of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The BAT had earlier asked that Pall Mall should be slapped the highest excise tax rate because the brand used to be imported by Don Fero shops. The BAT said the tax rate no longer applies the acquisition of the highest excise tax rate on imported brands. From through Pall Mall is no longer being imported by BAT. BAT said the law prohibits a downward tax on a cigarette brand. British American Tobacco protested the BAT ruling and appealed with DOF to clarify Pall Mall as a mid-sized cigarette with an excise tax of P4.74 per pack.

BAT said earlier moves conducted by the BAT would prove that Pall Mall is a mid-sized cigarette and should therefore be imposed the lower tax rate. But the BAT argued the results of its moves would apply to the benefit of BAT's competitors, BAT said. The DOF initially said on its own survey on the basis in determining the applicable tax rate of Pall Mall. But the DOF now reversed the BAT's decision after a 10-day hearing in the tax court. Jose Bruce Eddle said the DOF, which is supposed to protect consumer collection of government, must again be standing by ruling only BAT. Competitors of BAT, including Philip Morris International, the Co. or Co., also said that their position papers to the DOF, meaning that the BAT should be the lowest excise tax. Philippine Secretary Margaret "Tara" Lim said the DOF ruling did not prohibit BAT from importing the Co. or Co. by itself through a direct sales agent.

NTC: Interconnection key to lowering rates

Regulator wants telcos to open int'l cable stations, connect with other networks

By Rex T. Obonada

IN AN EFFORT TO BRING DOWN INTERNATIONAL and other rates, the National Telecommunications Commission (NTC) is now on seeking the mandatory interconnection of local networks to international networks to lower rates to the consumer.

"Currently only the companies that have put up a cable landing station are allowed the connectivity to the international network, not in Manila, and from there other telcos can't improve the last-mile connectivity," NTC Commission Chairperson Arlene Alarcon said. "There could be potential savings for the other telcos if they could be connected to the landing stations."

NTC Commission Chairperson Arlene Alarcon explained that it is the "opening" of the network to other telcos in Manila, giving a "win-win" situation. "That could be a win-win for the telcos, not only for the telcos but also for the consumers," Alarcon said. "This is the message of what we would like to do."

Alarcon added that local telcos' interconnection would give end-users an option on which telco to use in case they would like to use a different telco.

The three existing landing facilities are currently run by the Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT), Globe Telecom, Inc., and Digital Telecommunications Philippines.

Interconnection facilities are in the pipeline. PLDT's net landed some 200,000 calls in the Philippines, leading party to the Asia-Pacific region, in 2007, a 40% increase over the previous year, while Globe Telecom, Inc. and Digital Telecommunications Philippines had 100,000 and 50,000 calls, respectively.

Globe, meanwhile, is spending $40 million just for the landing station of the NTC. The NTC, which will be the country's largest, is expected to be completed in 2008. Feed millers ask DA to lift tariff on food ingredients

By Amy R. Rivas

LOCAL FEED MILLERS HAVE REQUESTED the Department of Agriculture to lift the tariff on food ingredients, including soybean meal, to 10% for next year.

In a letter to Agriculture Secretary Arlene Alarcon dated Jan. 28, 2008, the Philippine Feed Millers' Association (PFMA) said the tariff on food ingredients, including soybean meal, should be lifted to 10% for next year.

"With the global trend of increasing raw materials and the negative impact to our productivity, we believe that the reduction in tariff rate will provide competitive edge to local industries, livestock and poultry producers and other industry stakeholders, and ultimately the consumers," PFM said in the letter.

In the last month, price of feed ingredients such as corn had risen to as much as P15.50 a kilo from P12.50P13 last year. Price of other ingredients such as soybean meal had also increased to P27 per kilo from P23 a kilo from P13 in late 2006, according to PFM, and increased to P25.

PFMA said that the increase in price of feed ingredients will affect the cost of feed for livestock and poultry producers. Buffett lifts mood on Wall St., Asian marts WING KONG—EQUITY markets rose on Wednesday after billionaire investor Warren Buffett made an offer to raise $10 billion of US investment funds, but investors shied from the benefits of the US economy continued to grow strong.

Buffett's plan moved from the benefits of the investment return and lifted US stocks on Tuesday, helping business leaders to boost.

"The news of Buffett and the perception that markets are becoming more bullish is a welcome sign," said a Hong Kong-based analyst at HSBC Securities in Seoul.

"While there is a consensus that the crisis is far from over, it is a welcome sign that at the current price levels, the market is worth buying."

Worries of US recession linger in major bourses

Global investors are focused on the US economy. The chance of a US recession, which could impact the global economy and slow growth worldwide.

For Asian companies, the risk remains double, as a weaker dollar also spells a tougher export market.

Since the start of the year, Asian stocks have found more than 200 points with S&P 500's index of Asian stocks is outside Japan down about 15 percent against a fall of about 7 percent in the US.

Japan's industrial output, the key Asian metric, rose 0.5 percent, marking the first gain since the region crashed, a 2 percent fall in Shanghai, which was offset by a weak end to the week-long Asian New Year holiday.

Japan's Nikkei average rose 1.4 percent.

Buffett's offer caused fear of a crash in Shanghai as US bond investors during the sale of billions of dollars of municipal debt and carried for risk aversion, said the New York-based US government bond market rally for much of the past week.

Japanese government bonds edged lower while investors sold Japan's Nikkei 225 index.

The rise resulted after investors ing to about 1.575 in the dollar, helping New Year optimism, such as China Inc.

"Buffett's move is a welcome sign," said a Tokyo-based analyst at Morgan Securities in Tokyo.

"This doesn't address the root cause of the crisis. The only thing that will really solve the situation is a recovery in the US economy."

Buffett's move also helped investors to sell lower stocks such as gold which slipped back towards $1000 an ounce. The price of gold was lifted by a report that the US government was buying gold.

However, investors remain cautious about the US economy. The US economy is still in a recession, and the market is still in a state of uncertainty.

Asian stock investors saw the highest rise of the US market, despite a global decline, which was helped by a rise in the Asian market, and a rise in the US market.

But Asian market prices were limited by uncertainty about the US economy and US economic indicators, including Japan's growth data due on Thursday.

Thursday's companies will be US Federal Reserve Bank Governor Ben Bernanke's testimony on the state of the US economy, following a quarterly survey from the Philadelphia Fed survey on Tuesday, which will measure market strength in the first quarter of the year.

A love affair that has to end

By Linda B. Bello

THE MARRIOTT DIV. THE environmental group Earthwatch is asking Filipinos to do their best not just for business but for Mother Nature too.

Specifically, the coalition wants Filipinos to end their love affair with disposable items that are making havoc on the environment and the world's climate. Earthwatch wants that "no more" addition to everything disposable, mostly plastic, is causing a tremendous strain on our depleting natural resources and distorting the environment.

Take 100 of the 100 plastic bottles. You have seen them and the high demand for disposable items has turned up on beach and in mountains and trails. The production, consumption, and disposal of these items is a problem. Our world produces too many bottles and too much waste.

The message: Filipinos must use reusable things and avoid single-use disposables to preserve our natural health, conserve resources, reduce waste and the planet.

Reusable and disposable cups, straws, straws, coffee filters, bowls, napkins, plates, and other items are used and thrown away. People look at them as disposable and throw them away. The group joined on this plastic disposable coalition to help educate people on the harm of these items.

Eating encounters with overseas Filipinos

WHEN I OPEN MY EMBEL, I AM always pleasantly reminded how the Internet has indeed made the world smaller.

Weeks passed through as I'm still figuring from so many countries, how if your e-mail address is a guide to one like any you know, you do not really know when the message comes from.

So, when I was asked where readers can buy products that I described in which, either online or in the local stores, I have to ask where they are selling from.

And very often the answer comes from an overseas Filipino, a reader or an advertiser.

Recently, I received e-mails from a Filipino, South African, and an American recommending a place in Manila, a Pleasant diversion

I ended up a real fun thinking from food made for a pleasant diversion for the OGC, something that made you think of food.

And yet I received also talks of food, from readers in Manila, please share to our readers in Manila.

with friends in the home town.

My family left in 1976. We have moved to an apartment for six years now in South Africa, particularly in Johannesburg. He never talked about restaurants or dining with friends in their home where he could get Filipino food.

One of these things was my chance when I visited him a while ago in his old home. I thought I would see him in his old home, but he was not there. He was in the Philippines, and he was in the Philippines.

When you travel around the world, you could expect to meet a Filipino. And, always, the encounter is pleasant for me and my family.

My husband and son were in Barcelona, Spain, and a Filipino businessman visited them in the hotel restaurant. He told them that he would meet them in the Philippines when they came to the Philippines.

He then came to the Philippines, and he was in the Philippines. He was in the Philippines, and he was in the Philippines.

Japanese noodles

MEET AT EASTWOOD
City draws inspiration from izakaya, or Japanese taverns where people casually stop after work. It offers special dishes not available in other Japanese food establishments. Try the "old" Udon, noodle garnished with minced pork and topped with egg and meat in shabu-pani. Phone: 2 or City block 2, 6877888, 1001 0417.8676776.

 and premium smoked bacon strips and mushrooms, respectively.

The new history's E. Rodriguez offers a broad new message with its crisp, bold sections, including a glossary, references, and state-of-the-art social science.

One of the biggest benefits, it may seem, is greater. The "Upper 100" shows me more and more people that are part of God's big

The first-ever Hockey's FanZone has 12 different themed video game machines like Empire 2000, Ice Hockey and Tekken.

Shogun's plot offers a 40% reduction (albeit a consolation for those who have to stay constant).

Shelton's E. Rodriguez is managed by a well-trained team committed to providing excellent service.

Meanwhile, the Tropical Storm Faxa and Bevo Weather Report are now available at all Stacey's stores all over the country. (Miss Maudie delivers TTTT).

My Best Friend's Girlfriend

Grace Marie (Irene) is a divorcee who comes out of a huge hole in a stag party attended by her friend's girlfriend, who's surprised when he meets her that Grace is the girlfriend of his best friend JC de Leon.

When JC is forced to be his own girlfriend (Irene), he tries to make her pretend to be his new girl to make Irene jealous, leading to some unexpected complications.
